Your support sustains the beautiful gardens of Swarthmore.

The Swarthmore Horticultural Society is an all-volunteer organization that designs, plants, and maintains 13 public gardens throughout our town for all to enjoy, including:

- The Co-op Garden
- Alex's Garden at the Post Office
- The Clock Tower Plaza (train station)
- The War Memorial Garden
- The Centennial Park Garden
- The containers in Central Park
- The Gateway Park Garden
- The Lincoln Way Garden
- Gardens at Borough Hall & Library
- The Business District Sidewalk Planters

Although our work is done by volunteers, we redesign and replant these gardens at least twice a year, and the cost of the thousands of bulbs and annuals that we install in a season is considerable. For this reason, we turn to you for financial support.

Please become a member and join or renew today. Your membership makes these gardens possible and will keep Swarthmore in bloom through the seasons, and into the future.

In addition to becoming a financial partner in beautifying our community, member benefits include plant buying trips, garden parties, and garden tours. If you have the time, you might also consider joining one of our friendly garden teams or volunteering in some other way to help our organization.
